

Race Fans Joined NASCAR Star Kurt Busch at The Varsity 2009 Kobalt Tools 500 Winner "Slings" Dogs at Atlanta Landmark

"What'll ya have?! What'll ya have?!" Every Atlantan knows that greeting when entering The Varsity.

NASCAR fans had the opportunity to join 2009 Kobalt Tools 500 race winner Kurt Busch at The Varsity in Atlanta for lunch on Wednesday, Feb. 17.

Busch was in Atlanta to assist in promoting the March 5-7 Kobalt Tools 500 race weekend at Atlanta Motor Speedway and 20 NASCAR fans were selected to eat lunch with the former NASCAR Sprint Cup Series champion.

Fans were encouraged to wear their best NASCAR, Kurt Busch or Atlanta Motor Speedway gear and members of the Atlanta Motor Speedway staff selected the 20 most-appropriately dressed fans to join Busch at approximately 12:15 p.m. Busch arrived at the downtown location in the Fans also lined up to enter to for a chance to win a Kobalt Tools 500 ticket package or a Richard Petty Driving Experience prize.

In addition to dining at the Varsity, Busch took orders and served food to unsuspecting patrons hungering for those famous chili cheese dogs and delicious Frosted Orange shakes.

If you are in Atlanta for the Kolbalt Tools 500 race weekend - you owe to yourself to visit The Varsity and sample their menu - it's like Victory Lane for your taste buds!! Visit www.thevarsity.com for their menu, history and directions. Why not make the trip to The Varsity part of a whole day exploring Atlanta? Visit the Atlanta Visitor Center website at www.atlanta.net for more attractions and landmarks - the city has a wealth of facinating and fun things to do and see! (Photos by Fred Hanyon, MSA)

Kurt Busch arrives at the Varsity in racing style.

Busch and Varsity owner, Gordon Muir, with the city of Atlanta in the background.

Fans signed up for drawing of race tickets and Richard Petty Driving Experience rides.

These fans were eagerly awaiting the chance for Kurt to serve them Varsity dogs.

Look at the professional way Busch handles the orders to the alarm of his co-workers.

Slacker! Busch ditches before the end of his shift!!